ST. THOMAS HIGH SCHOOL
AUCTION & GALA
NOVEMBER 7, 2020

Bring on the new Roarin' 20s!!

Welcome to The 20's Roar Again, the 2020 St. Thomas Auction and Gala!

Tonight we celebrate one of the finest Eagles ever to graduate from STH. Johnny Rathmell '75 is the Bee's Knees! He has been a true blessing to St. Thomas. He has been a key architect of the future of our school. His service on the Board of Directors was vital to Fr. Storey and myself.

I also must thank Catherine Chandler and our dynamic Gala co-chairs, Christine Cummins, Julie Perry, and Catherine Rentz. These wonderful women have successfully navigated the craziness of 2020 to bring us together virtually for this historic gala. The unwavering positivity and conviction of our co-chairs has ensured that we will have an incredible night.

Enjoy a little giggle water and a great meal! All that we do tonight builds our community and supports all the work we do to prepare the Men of St. Thomas to make an impact on the world! Wherever you are tonight, dance, laugh, sing, bid on auction items and have fun with the people around you.

Bright smiles! One and All!

Fr. James Murphy, CSB

Greetings and welcome to the 2020 St. Thomas High School Virtual Auction.

For some, 2020 has unfortunately become a year synonymous with misfortune and disappointment. The struggles of many people in our country right now are real and deserve our attention and prayers. However, 2020 has also reminded me of the value of the blessings in my life: my family, my vocation as principal, and our entire St. Thomas community. Our faculty and staff have consistently innovated, adapted, and worked relentlessly to deliver on the mission and vision of our school while our students and families have remained optimistic and committed.

Tonight is an opportunity to celebrate and support the good and holy people of St. Thomas High School. We have much to be grateful for and many to thank. Regardless of the circumstances, we have shown that teaching goodness, discipline, and knowledge thrives at St. Thomas. To that end, tonight we humbly request your generosity and support.

Thank you for joining us tonight. A special thank you goes out to the Rathmell family and Johnny. I had the pleasure of working with Johnny on our board during my first year as principal and I'm proud to call him a fellow alum. We couldn't be honoring a more deserving man. Additionally, I'd like to thank our Advancement team and our Auction Chairs. Catherine Chandler, Christine Cummins, Julie Perry, and Catherine Rentz have certainly risen to the occasion of planning and coordinating an exceptional virtual event on November 7, 2020.

Have fun tonight, spend wildly, and remember...Eagle Fight Never Dies!

God Bless,

Dr. Aaron Dominguez '96

A History of
THE BASILIAN FATHERS

In the aftermath of the French Revolution and the Napoleonic wars, at a time when French seminaries had been forcibly closed and Catholic education suppressed, a small group of diocesan priests in Annonay, France, came together to establish a school to educate young men and prepare them for the priesthood. They went about this task in secret until 1822 when French laws were changed. At that time, the ten priests residing there bound themselves into a religious community in order to continue the important work they had begun. The members took St. Basil the Great, a fourth century Bishop and teacher, as their namesake and became the Congregation of St. Basil.

Coming to America

In 1852, at the request of Bishop de Charbonnel of Toronto, a former student at Annonay, the Basilians opened St. Michael's College in Toronto, Ontario. During that time, the Congregation continued to grow in North America. In 1900, three Basilian priests, led by Fr. Nicholas Roche, CSB, opened St. Thomas College in Houston on the banks of the Buffalo Bayou in an unused building of a Franciscan monastery. In 1903, they moved the school to a more permanent location downtown at Austin and Hadley Streets where the school thrived until 1940. At that time, thanks to the efforts of Fr. T.P. O'Rourke, CSB and Fr. Leland A. Higgins, CSB, the school moved to its current home at the corner of Memorial and Shepherd Drives.

At St. Thomas High School, the Basilian Fathers have continued the tradition of Catholic education that began almost 200 years ago in the mountains of central France. Despite dramatic changes in the world since that time, the Basilian motto of "Teach Me Goodness, Discipline, and Knowledge" has become an integral part of numerous young men's lives. Tonight, we honor that history and join with the Basilian Fathers in their steadfast commitment to Catholic education.

A Note From the
AUCTION & GALA CHAIRS

Cheers Friends of St. Thomas,

We are so pleased you could “join us” virtually for this unprecedented Auction and Gala. Even though we couldn’t gather together in person this year, the extent of watch parties in and around Houston demonstrates not only your dedication to St. Thomas but also the strong fellowship we have because of St. Thomas. You play a large part in the success of this year’s Auction & Gala. We appreciate your willingness to have a roaring good time that looks a little different from Auctions & Galas of the past.

We are thrilled to honor John Rathmell ‘75 as “The 20’s Roar Again”. John’s involvement at St. Thomas High School as President of the Board of Directors and his integral role in the 4500Forever Capital Campaign has benefited the growth of our sons, our facilities and the spirit of pride and fellowship within our beloved Eagle community. John, we offer you our sincere appreciation and gratitude for your dedication and leadership as St. Thomas High School moves into a very exciting and vibrant future!

We also wish to offer a sincere thank you to our Auction & Gala Committee for their willingness to help out when needed, even with masks and on a short notice. You have worked very hard to plan, prepare and host an event like none other.

Many thanks also go to the entire STH staff...you are definitely “the bee’s knees”! You were always willing to help in the midst of learning how to teach in new environments and doing it impressively well. And a glitzy acknowledgment to our very generous donors and underwriting supporters, this event would not be possible without your generosity.

Time for the party to begin! Bid often and generously! It would be the “cat’s meow”! Every dollar that we raise in celebration supplements the operating budget of the school and opens more opportunities for our sons and all future Eagles for years to come.

Let’s have a roaring good time!

Honoring
JOHN RATHMELL '75

John Rathmell '75 operates from a prominent posture of prestige, the president of Lockton Marine & Energy at Lockton Companies, part of a global professional services firm that has grown to become the world's largest privately held, independent insurance broker.

His professional rise was in response to the country's most unspeakable catastrophe - the sudden and massive terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. He was instrumental in restructuring a recovery plan to unprecedented loss and destruction. And in 2020 Rathmell has assumed a similar leadership role for Lockton during the unprecedented disruption of the coronavirus pandemic, empowering his team of elite corporate professionals to react to change, think creatively, and achieve results.

And on a night when his beloved St. Thomas honors his lifetime success and contributions to the community and institution he cherishes with equal depth and measure, there is no greater authority to paint the picture of where St. Thomas has been, is headed, and what continues to serve as his Basilian bedrock.

The deep introspection to his broad swath of success and unshakable ethics, both professionally and personally, reflects his deep connections to his alma mater.

"What remains most vivid and relevant to me today from my high school years are the relationships," Rathmell says.

"The Basilians who made up most of the faculty, a great group of friends who crossed ethnic and financial lines. I grew up in River Oaks, attended St. Anne's (Catholic School), and was looked upon as the so-called rich kid. But there was a great acceptance throughout our student body, a fraternal community. I developed bonds with classmates, got to know parents and families, and appreciated their experiences. It was enlightening academically and spiritually. Those years formed my foundation, the building blocks where I have stood in life."

From St. Thomas, Rathmell studied at the University of Texas at Austin during the freewheeling, youth-driven 1970s before the lazy college town morphed into the eternal boom. And then the eternal festival. And the eternal traffic jam. And the eternal tech start-up. And the eternal food truck.

Rathmell's undergraduate years intersected with the down days of Darrell Royal, the thundering tour de force emergence of eternal Longhorn icon Earl Campbell, the uprising hoopdom of Abe Lemons, dizzy nights at the Soap Creek Saloon and Broken Spoke, and chicken fried frenzies at The Stallion. The signature soundtrack was crafted by Willie, Wayland, and the boys - a host of cosmic cowboys and redneck rockers giving birth to outlaw country. Counterculture was popular culture. Politics through protest. Onward through the fog.

Amid the unrest, Rathmell graduated and chose to follow a traditional business path that paved the way to his stellar distinction leading to, and continuing with, his breakthrough at Lockton, a driven career marked by relentless commitment and unquestioned measurable returns. Yet, no achievement has proved as rewarding as reconnecting in the last decade with his St. Thomas roots.

Rathmell played an integral role in the 4500Forever capital campaign, the most ambitious in St. Thomas history raising more than $60 million for property acquisition to expand the campus north boundary. He has also continued on the school's Board of Directors following his emphatic tenure as president from 2014-17.

“When I looked at my life several years ago, I recognized that St. Thomas clearly had a great influence on whom I became as a person,” Rathmell says. “I had to give back. It was important for me to become more involved with the community, establish new relationships with the Basilians. And now through the property purchase and fundraising, my long-lasting friendships are even stronger and more powerful, just a wonderful and deeply rewarding experience. I tell people I’m from St. Thomas. I wear it like a badge. I couldn’t say that with confidence if I wasn’t giving back to the school.”

Rathmell believes the rich heritage of Basilian education is as dynamic and essential now as during the volatile '70s of his youth, as when the institution was founded in Houston in 1900 - educating young men, allowing them to grow in their faith, and put that faith into action in the service of others. In essence, live the ethos of Teach Me Goodness, Discipline, and Knowledge.

JOHN RATHMELL '75

“Every time and place is different but St. Thomas remains critically important to the broad spectrum of families it serves and our city as a whole,” Rathmell says. “A Catholic all-boys institution in the heart of Houston where traditional values meet contemporary times ... that is St. Thomas. I see students today not that much different than I was, forming a belief and trust in faculty, coaches, and mentors. That purpose is why so many of us fought against long odds to enhance the school’s future into this next century. We all want the next generations to benefit from the same faith-based experience we were afforded.”

AUCTION & GALA HISTORY

During Round-Up in 1977, the St. Thomas Auction was born and raised a whopping $2,500. In 1982, it became an evening event before Round-Up, and 30 years ago, in 1985, it was moved to the autumn as its own major Mothers' Club event. It is now one of the most anticipated dates on the St. Thomas High School calendar. Each year, dedicated parents collect auction items, contact alumni, and transform empty halls into shopping boutiques and lavish dining rooms. We continue this tradition tonight with the proceeds benefiting the school's operating fund. Your generosity supports the newest generation of St. Thomas men as they pursue an education grounded in excellence and Basilian values.
